All works of taste must bear a price in proportion to the skill, taste, time, expense and risk attending their manufacture. Those things called dear are, when justly estimated, the cheapest: they are attended with much less profit to the artist than those which everybody calls cheap.—John Ruskin

THERE is a distinctiveness about Roycroft Furniture that places it in a class by itself. The simplicity of design and the intent are strictly Mission—made to use and to last. The monks of the California Missions made their own furniture because they had to. Having the right idea of the simple life, and the belief that beauty and durability were best displayed in the plain, straight-line effect, they originated the now so-called Mission design. And, as they had all the time there was, they made their furniture as well as they knew how.

Roycroft Furniture resembles that made by the old monks, in its simple beauty, its strength and its excellent workmanship. We use no nails—but are generous in the use of pegs, pins, mortises and tenons.

Our furniture is made of the solid wood—no veneer. We use only the best grade of quarter-sawed oak and African or Santo Domingo mahogany. The oak is finished in our own weathered finish, a combination of stain, filler, and wax polish, that produces a satisfying and permanent effect. The mahogany is finished in exactly the same way, except that the soft, red tones of the natural wood are preserved and brought out.

¶ The leather used for cushions and upholstering is a high grade of bold-grain Spanish cowhide, carefully selected. This leather will give almost unlimited wear. The seats on all chairs not upholstered are a heavy sole-leather, strongly supported underneath with heavy webbing.

We do not confine ourselves to the designs shown herein, but will, if you wish, make special pieces to your order, embodying your own ideas. Prices net—F.O.B., East Aurora
